Give S'MORE for camp!

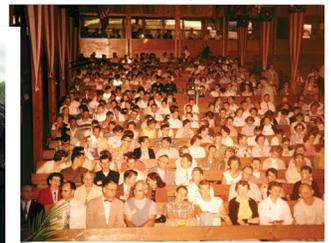

For over nine decades (since 1922), the original Koronis Tabernacle stood at the geographic and spiritual center of the Lake Koronis Assembly Grounds. This 1,500-seat pavilion was the place where the community of faith (youth, families, and adults) came together each summer to become renewed in their commitment to God and to each other. As this lakeside “camp meeting” grew into a year-round retreat center in the 1980s, and as the seasonal Tabernacle began to show its age, UMC camp leadership began to see the strategic need to replace the structure with a modern, year-round, state-of-the-art meeting space (plus a new kitchen and dining room) that would enhance the camp’s ability to serve as a gathering place for the 21st-century church. In the spring of 2015, facing significant structural concerns, this venerable structure was razed—and a capital campaign for a new Tabernacle was begun.
